The Glenorchy City Council recognises that people with a disability are valued members of the community who strengthen the social, economic and cultural life of the City of Glenorchy. The Council is committed to working in partnership with the community and others to strive to achieve an accessible City.

The Moonah Arts Centre is part of the Community Development Unit of Glenorchy City Council, and has been operating for the past 14 years. It has established itself as a significant forum in Tasmania in both community and cultural development activity and as a centre of excellence in a wide range of arts practice. The Arts Centre has 60 events each year and has had an ongoing relationship with many disability organisations and communities in southern Tasmania.

The Amalgamation Film Festival

December 2006

South

This touring Film Festival will feature short autobiographical films about people who live with a disability and how they have used art to tell their story.

The program starts with the screening of a short comical film entitled 'Wheel Love' by Emma Butler from Launceston.
Then follows 12 personal digital stories, Telling Tales, produced by Arts Access Victoria and the Australia Centre for the Moving Image. The final film features Bronwyn Hayward from New Zealand, who wants to become a dancer but is told that she cannot because of her disability. The story tells her journey to become a dancer.

Arts Action Inc. and Women's Health Program, DHHS, are pleased to announce that Bronwyn Hayward will be in Tasmania for the Amalgamation Film Festival and will perform a short dance piece to conclude the launch screening.
She will also conduct six workshops throughout the Amalgamation Arts Festival (see pages 20–22).
