Access to the arts
for people with a disability

High Beam Local

Adelaide the home to some of Australia's most innovative festivals is giving birth to a new invigorated High Beam Festival.

In 1998, the vision and passion of many dedicated South Australians brought about the biennial High Beam Festival with unforgettable performances by artists with disabilities from Australia and around the globe.

Arts Access SA's High Beam, like Australia's largest festival, the Adelaide Fringe has undergone a few changes and with it for 2006/07, comes two festivals, High Beam Local and High Beam Global.

International Day for People with Disabilities on 3 December is when High Beam Local comes to life. While High Beam Global will be part of Adelaide Fringe 2007.

What ever takes your fancy, High Beam will undoubtedly provide you with a show or three that will amaze, excite and light your fire of healthy, artistic curiosity.
