Arts Project Australia President Jonah Jones with Executive Director Sue Roff in front of a fantastic selection of highly popular work by Julian Martin at Melbourne Art Fair 2012

Another Successful Art Fair!

We were thrilled with the tremendous success of this year's Melbourne Art Fair at the Royal Exhibition Building in which we sold over 140 artworks! Our stand (featuring work by over 40 artists) was met with great enthusiasm by the general public with many visitors stating it was their favourite! Thousands of visitors were in attendance across the four day event which was a wonderful opportunity for Arts Project to make new connections and friends and also reintroduce others to the wonderful work of our artists. A particular highlight was the sale of Chris Mason's large scale snake sculpture - Hong Mai, to a Melbourne Collector.

Arts Project Australia at Melbourne Art Fair was generously supported by Gandel Philanthropy and Arts Victoria.

Miles Howard-Wilks

The work of Miles Howard-Wilks has been consistently concerned with such themes as sharks, crocodiles and other aquatic creatures, magpies, transport and Australian Rules football. The inclusion of such eclectic subject matter coupled with his use of multiple perspectives gives his unique landscape imagery an other worldly quality. His attention to detail and at times decorative paint application add to the intrigue and sophistication of this works. Howard-Wilks was selected as one of our feature artists at 2012 Melbourne Art Fair where he sold eight out of nine artworks that we presented at our stand!

Howard-Wilks' intensity and commitment to his work is also demonstrated in the development of his animated films produced over the last few years.

Valerio Ciccone - Peripheral Observer

8 September 2012 - 16 October 2012
 Arts Project Australia

Exhibition Opening: Saturday 8 September 2012 from 3-5pm

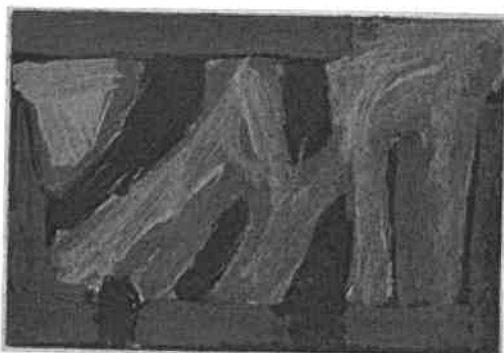

Valerio Ciccone's work reflects his fascination with the world around him. Whether in his wry interpretations of popular culture, or in his gentle reflections on the encounters of everyday life, Ciccone has explored a range of techniques including drawing, printmaking, ceramics and animation. Warm and gregarious, yet at the same time shy and reserved, Ciccone brings a perspective to his work which suggests that of the peripheral observer whose thoughtful detachment offers fresh insights into the familiar. Spanning almost thirty years, this major survey exhibition is a testament to the varied terrain Valerio Ciccone has covered on his rich artistic journey.

Coinciding with Valerio Ciccone: Peripheral Observer is the launch of catalogue number two in the Leonard Joel Series of publications to commemorate this significant exhibition.
